DIVIDEND, JAN'Y 1, 1868,
FORTY PER CENT. UPON ALL POLICIES THAT have been in force four years and payable on the anniversaries of the renewals of said policies.

This Company in declaring its Dividend, do so UPON THE PERCENTAGE SYSTEM, that each insurer, WHETHER HE IS A RICH MAN OR A POOR MAN, A PROMINENT CITIZEN OR AN HUMBLE CITIZEN, SHARES ALIKE.

PREMIUM SYSTEM.

CASH, WHEN REQUIRED. NOTES ARE, HOWEVER, TAKEN so as to accommodate the insurer in paying his Premiums, thus showing the confidence of the Company in its ability to declare Dividends that will eventually Cancel the Notes.

How different are this is from a Cash Company who exact all Cash, under the plea that it is unsafe to grant this indulgence to a policy-holder, when he is unable to pay his renewal premium.

REMEMBER

That the "OLD MANHATTAN" never assumes or promises Extravagant Dividends to induce insurers to come and insure with them. Their Dividends in the past have always been equal to all well managed and first-class Companies, and they can offer the record of the past as an evidence of the future. It never vilifies the character of other Companies to accumulate business. THE MANHATTAN'S oldest insurers are its best advocates. The business of the Company is conducted with ECONOMY!

This is an evidence of careful management and a promise of Large Dividends in future.

From the following table, taken from the New York Insurance Reports of 1867, it will be seen that our percentage of expenses to receipts are very much less than any Companies enumerated below:

Expenses on each $100 of Receipts:

Manhattan Life	13 16
Guardian	14 39
North America	15 44
Mutual Life	17 09
Continental	20 54
Germania	22 31

This Company Insures upon all the most approved plans, AND AT THE SAME RATES CHARGED BY ALL FIRST-CLASS COMPANIES. APPLICANTS, before insuring, would do well to examine our Circulars, which can be had upon application either by mail or otherwise, of Affairs in Grant County.

CANYON CITY, Grant Co., Oregon.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

Grant county is but young as yet; still its future looks promising, and with its mines and vast extent of agricultural and grazing lands, bids fair to become a wealthy and populous county. Spring has fairly set in here, and the miners are endeavoring to "make hay while the sun shines." Every claim on the creek is being worked, and in the banks can be seen a large amount of drift dirt ready to be run through the sluices. The weather is very pleasant and all seem very busy with their own affairs.

From the North Fork we hear of more claims being discovered that will pay well for working, and it is the growing impression here that the large hills bordering the banks of that stream will all pay remunerative wages to those who work them. There is an abundance of water in the river for hydraulic purposes and when once a company constructs a ditch, which will not be very expensive, they will then have claims which will last them for years.

The road between here and Camp Harney is now open for travel, and men having business connected with that place are wending their way thither. The last report from there was to the effect that General Crook had the Indians surrounded near Stein's mountain, where they, (the Indians), finding escape impossible, were fortifying preparatory to an attack by the forces under Crook's command. The general feels confident that he can capture the whole band, believed to be the same that has been committing depredations on the Dalles and Canyon road for the last four years.

Miners are beginning to arrive from below, whither they repaired to spend the winter; and those of my acquaintance who have made this place their home for the last four years, return declaring themselves satisfied with Canyon, which speaks well for this place.

Politics are being agitated here, and the Union party are bestiring themselves preparing for the fray. Some three weeks ago a Grant Club was organized in this place, and yesterday we hoisted the stars and stripes, with U. S. Grant on them in large letters, which gave umbrage to the Democrats. Doubtless it caused them to remember the unchivalrous reply he gave General Buckner at the capture of Fort Donelson.

We intend to carry this county next June by a handsome majority.

Affairs here are beginning to assume their wonted activity. Merchants feel confident of a good season for trade, and miners are sanguine of making money. The stages arrive and depart crowded, and money in business circles appears plentiful. Men are preparing to start across the mountains in every direction, and this season will witness the addition of other mining districts to our already extensive placer mines. B.

On the 4th day of March, just three years from the day when he was inaugurated as Vice President of the United States, Andrew Johnson took heart of grace, and swore that though Hugh McCulloch deserted and Nasby disowned him, he had yet some friends left, for on that day he received the following mighty crumb of comfort:

SALEM, OREGON, March 3d, 1868.

To His Excellency Andrew Johnson, President of the United States: A meeting of Democratic citizens has adopted the following:

Resolved, That the Democracy of Oregon endorse, to the fullest extent, the action of President Johnson in removing Stanton, and will further endorse any action he may take in the furtherance of the great cause of constitutional liberty.

JOHN C. BERRY, Chairman.

That the Democracy of Salem, Oregon, should endorse the removal of Stanton, and pledge itself to endorse any and all acts of the said A. Johnson, in behalf of the "great cause of constitutional liberty," is indeed a touching evidence of the devotion of the Salem Democracy to the much-persecuted and sadly harried President. Just what support to his excellency, in this his hour of trial, the endorsement of the Democracy is designed to be, does not fully appear. Unfortunately, the influence of the village politicians represented by "John C. Berry, Chairman," does not extend into the United States Senate, and it is in that body that Mr. Johnson now stands in urgent need of friends. Let us not sneer at the Salem democracy who telegraphed their affecting address to the President all the way from an Oregonian Bascom's grocery to Washington. Verily, they have their reward in being printed in the New York World as one of the voices of the people; and John C. Berry, Chairman, has at last achieved a bit of fame.—Ed.

FIRST CLASS NOTICE.—If there is a bigger bore in Christendom than George Francis Train, it is Victor Hugo, who has won a large notoriety by a shrewd charlatanism in a sort of pop-eyed literature. Periodically there are paragraphs in all the papers about Victor Hugo. Victor Hugo patted a ragged urchin on the head. Victor Hugo has visited an old woman in a fisherman's hut. Victor Hugo has contributed a copy of Les Miserables to a circulating library. Victor Hugo has written an impudent letter to Louis Napoleon, from his safe retreat. Writing letters seems to be his strong point. Let Victor Emanuel, or Garibaldi, or Blondin, or Patti, or the Siamese Twins, or Andrew Johnson, or Tom Thumb, or any other of the notorieties, bring himself or herself prominently before the public in his or her own peculiar manner, and presently we have a letter from Victor Hugo, attaching himself to the notoriety of the hour, and securing a share of the gossip. In every rupture of Government, in every social revolution, in every volcanic eruption or other upheaving of the physical universe, in every discovery of a new planet, or a new patent soap, pop! flies open the letter box of Victor Hugo, and we have a hysterical note, half exclamation, one-third interjection, and all flatulence—"Behold me! Victor Hugo!! the Illustrious exile! I attach myself to you, brother! You are famous! I am famous! We are famous! There was a lyre in the tent of Achilles! a harp in that of Judas Maccabæus! Orlando sent a copy of verses to Charlemagne. Frederick II addressed odes to Voltaire! Heroes are poets! You, too, prove it! You, my Blondin, have hung suspended over the cataracts Niagara! The same breath of justice and liberty which inspires you with great deeds, inspires me with great words. Farewell, illustrious friend! Victor Hugo."—Columbus, Ohio, Journal.

SECESH ON THE RAMPAGE.—The Louisville Courier, which some of our contemporaries notice as being the best of "Democratic" papers, makes the following attempt to again "fire the Southern heart":

"War is not a pleasant thing to contemplate; but war is preferable to slavery. One or the other, Democrats of the Constitution, you must choose.

Democrats must prepare to fight! Democrats must fight!

The people must rise in their power and hurl the whole evil-breeding crew back into perdition!

Every man must do his duty! Every patriot must stand ready! Every rusty gun must be cleaned!

Pray to God, if you will, to change the hearts of the scoundrels in power; but don't fail to mould bullets!"

An unsuspecting married man from one of the Eastern States, who recently visited Chicago, relates that as soon as he reached the city, and before he was fairly out of the depot, he was attacked by a score of small boys, who pressed upon him the cards of various lawyers, and assaulted him with shouts of "Want a divorce, Mister?" "Here you are: divorce you in fifteen minutes!" and such like astounding cries.

Recently, at the opera ball in the city of Paris: "What! you here, and alone, Adele? I thought you were devoted to your husband."

"Yes, so I am; but he has the typhoid fever, and so I thought I would have a little fun."

Opening of the Campaign

The hour appointed for the candidates for Congress to address the people of this city yesterday was an unfavorable one, as there were large numbers whose employments made it impossible for them to attend, nevertheless an audience of several hundreds were assembled on the occasion Mr. Logan made the opening speech His address was a fair, clear and truthful exposition of the position of the Union party on the great questions at issue He made his position so clear that nobody could misunderstand it He remarked that it did not suit his purpose on that occasion to go back to any extent in the history of the country,—a remark which appeared to afford his competitor a good deal of relief,as it is not supposed that he wanted to hear much about the past shortcomings of his party Confining himself to living issues, Mr. Logan went on to discuss the phases of reconstruction and the position the Union party has taken on these questions While he evaded nothing, he refused to be led a step beyond the position held by the party, and thus at the commencement foiled his opponent, who had evidently hoped that he would either attempt to dodge, or would take positions not warranted by the record the party has made Every thing that the party is doing or proposes to do, is based on the fourteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States Negro suffrage was enacted in the South as a reconstruction measure, and after they are restored to their relations with the Union, the Constitution secures them in the right to regulate the suffrage for themselves Suffrage for the blacks at the South was necessary both for their own protection and for the purposes of reconstruction. The speaker stood squarely on the ground which has been taken by Congress, and would defend it against all the assaults of its opponents. His address was, throughout, a clear and able statement of the matters in issue, and such speeches must be of great service to the party, wherever delivered

Those who heard the speech of Mr Smith will without doubt agree that there is nothing comparable with it since the orations of Rev. Mr Chadband. "Say not to me," remarked Mr Chadband,"that Terewth is not the lamp of lamps I say to you, it is. I say to you a million of times over, it is. With a speaking trumpet, I say to you that if you rear yourself against it, you shall fall, you shall be bruised, you shall be battered, you shall be flawed, you shall be smashed " Mr. Smith proceeded, after the fashion of his prototype, to illustrate the doctrine of "Terewth." He remarked that the Republican party caused the war that that party was "primarily responsible" for the great rebellion. In the same vein of "Terewth" he asserted that it was in the power of the Republican party to avert the war, and they would not do it. They wanted the Union dismembered. In other words, those Republicans and patriotic Democrats who, rising above party, associated for the purpose of fighting the rebellion down, and perilled their lives in behalf of our nationality, were disunionists. As for the Democratic party, it had always been true to its constitutional obligations. It had "never sought to thwart the Government in putting down the rebellion." These were some of the speaker's efforts in behalf of the cause of "Terewth," and are fair specimens of the whole. It would not be altogether polite to give these remarks such a characterization as they deserve. Mr. Smith says his party "aided the Government" during the struggle, and Mr Smith prides himself on being a "candid man" But he soon quit these preliminaries, and got fairly at the great question which agitates his party—the negro. Of course the greater part of his address consisted of vulgar appeals to ignorance and prejudice against the black race He was not opposed to allowing the negro the enjoyment of civil rights; but he didn't believe those rights should be given him. Such a proceeding was unconstitutional. There was no need of giving such rights to the negro, for his dear master at the South would not abuse him. Even the laws of Oregon didn't discriminate against the negro (!) and of what use was that unconstitutional monstrosity, the civil rights bill? The real object of the bill was to enforce social and political equality. Under it a negro might force himself into your family, go to a church "built by white men" and dedicated to the service of the white man's God, crowd into your pew, and "sit down between you and your wife." But one thing more was necessary to be mentioned to complete this powerful argument, and we were sorry for the sake of the Democrats present that Mr Smith omitted it. Had he finished this part of his discourse with the intelligent inquiry, "Do you want your daughter to marry a nigger?" and with a declaration that he himself would perish before he would submit to such degradation, the effect would have been fine. Mr. Smith should take care not to let an opportunity of this kind slip again.

The orator grew pathetic over the "wrongs" of the South. He says those States elected Senators and Representatives some time ago, "and Congress should have admitted them." That is to say, the rebel Vice President and Senators from the rebel Congress should have been admitted into the Senate of the United States, and "General" Battle and his associates in the rebel army and from the rebel Congress, should have been admitted into the House Mr Smith thus tells the people of Oregon what he would do in case he is sent to Congress. He would hasten to welcome into the national legislature a body of men whose traitorous hands are red with the best blood of the country. We are glad he has defined his position on this question. The people of Oregon do not wish to see "Vice President" Stephens and his rebel crew in Congress, and therefore will not give Mr Smith an opportunity to welcome them in

Mr. Smith touched another point or two, which we shall allude to at another time We merely add here that his speech for gross misrepresentation of facts in regard to the action of his party during the war, and for ridiculousness of argument in relation to "negro equality" was unsurpassed and unsurpassable Such stuff will not bear the test of discussion, as Mr Smith will learn to his entire satisfaction before he gets half through with his canvass with Mr Logan

A foolish correspondent of the Copperhead Cult of San Francisco, writing from New York says that some people there are beginning to talk of a Pacific Republic." The Cult and its correspondent are actually as great fools and lunatics as Beriah Brown, who wrote a screaming article about a month ago, declaring that the country was on the "eve of revolution"

Says the New York Tribune The Peace men, after tempting Mr Johnson into his present unfortunate and deplorable position, now denounce him declaring that they are not responsible for his acts, and will give him no support Mr Johnson might have known this The party that tried to betray the country would little hesitate to betray him.

The Political Issues

Many young men in the State will next June for the first time exercise the elective franchise A precious privilege it is indeed There is really but one live paramount political issue in the field of discussion All others strictly speaking are side issues, and might at any other time be considered very important But this overshadowing question which may be stated in the following words, takes precedence this year Shall the Southern rebels lately in arms and their Northern sympathizing allies more tersely and directly called the Democratic party—take control of the Federal and State Governments of this Union?

Young men are often uninformed on the many questions of National and State policy And in this demagogueery and double dealing it requires a great deal of reading and a pretty thorough knowledge of men to find the truth in relation to party acts and on the various questions of political policy In this active and hurrying age, when a year is worth as much as five were five and twenty years ago, a young man cannot afford to spend a great deal of time in poring over the newspaperial discussions on the many political themes of great moment, to the party hack who expects to be benefitted by being hoisted into a famous niche, and of reaping a golden harvest Hence, by the way, that reckless pertinacity with which these fellows ply their avocation In making this assertion, I do not by any means intend to affirm that it is not necessary to obtain all the information obtainable from leading reliable sources, from the champions of error and falsehood. My young friend will say that sounds like a solecism, but it is not quite that. For often the most successful way to explore the real motives and proclivities of a champion of error is to some extent to rely on his statements But what I wish to say is this: The young man who would be wise and prudent will avoid the flood tide of twaddle written and spoken by the satellites of the two great political parties now struggling for supremacy It is enough to ascertain the general drift of these parties. And this is much to do "Actions speak louder than words," many times This wise maxim will apply to the distinguished leaders of the Democratic party South since 1861 It would be an insult to any loyal man of ordinary intelligence to undertake to convince him that the Southern wing of the Democratic party was all engaged in what Nasby calls the "Unpleasantness" It is enough to affirm that every mother's son of them were traitors and that all the leading Democrats North during the rebellion were in active sympathy with them and did all that could be done to strengthen them without actually plunging their States in civil war. To deny this is to deny the salient facts around which the historian of those eventful years has clustered the bloodiest detail of perfidy and crime that was ever spread on the pages of history. Every living historian who has written upon those times, embalmed them in an immortality of infamy Even Pollard himself, the author of the Lost Cause, though aiming to give them an honorable name, has enhanced the general stock of odium attaching to them by a recital of their revolting and inexcusable crimes.

I now repeat shall those representative men, the exponents of democracy take charge of the government they so persistently tried to destroy? Every man in the State who can read and has a modicum of common sense, knows that what I have affirmed about the rascality of the Democratic leaders is true Then it follows that those who desire to vote, to honor them, endorse their acts, and every one who votes against them, condemn their acts. It is a question of easy solution No one will deny that Oregon swarmed with rebels and rebel sympathizers during the war. We have all seen them and we know how they vote Did any one ever know of one voting the Union ticket? They vote the Democratic ticket, every one If a Democrat wants to find congenial company let him listen to the curses loud and deep against the Government, proceeding from the mouths of the lowest vagabonds to be found in the State, and he has struck it

If a loyal young man, voting for the first time in his life, wishes to commit no blunder in so doing, all he has to do is to watch those fellows who during the rebellion used to hurrah for its leaders, and notice how they vote, and then vote as they do not, and they will never fail to cast a vote that will tell against traitors and the lost cause. If a young man wants to vote in a manner that will tell in favor of the lost cause, let him attend the Copperhead meetings this summer, and listen to the Democratic speeches and notice if the men who throw up their hats and cheer the most, are not the same men he saw in 1863–4–5 plotting to bring about civil war in Oregon, and follow them to the polls, and then vote just as they do, and he will not be deceived. He will do the very thing he desires to It is a cheap way to become qualified to vote understandingly. In the first place he has only to know whether he is a Union man or a traitor, and then all he has left to do is to pick out his company. MENTOR NO. 2.

St. Helens, April 6, 1868.

National Monument to Abraham Lincoln

The State of New York has appropriated the sum of $10,000 to this monument fund, to be paid to the Treasurer of the Association, when evidence shall be furnished the Controller that the additional sum of $240,000 has been contributed to the fund to be raised for such purposes, and that the amount secured will be sufficient to build such monument. Twenty four States will be required to raise the amount, according to this programme The Washington Chronicle furnishes the following in relation to it.

Clark Mills, the sculptor, has furnished the design of a Lincoln monument, to be erected in this city, at a cost of two or three hundred thousand dollars. Circulars have been sent to parties throughout the country, from whom subscriptions were expected, and encouraging replies have been received This monument is designed to commemorate the signing of the Declaration of Emancipation. It is proposed that the pedestal be of granite, and figures bronze. The whole structure to be sixty feet, surmounted by thirty five colossal figures. Its construction triangular, the base of which admits three groups, presenting slavery The first (to the right) presents slavery in its most abject state, as when brought to this country Here we behold the nude, timid slave deprived of all which tends to state the heart with any spirit of pride or independence, galled by the yoke of slavery. The second represents a less abject stage. The slave here is partly clad, more enlightened, and hence, realizing his bondage, startles with a love of freedom. The third (the bind) is the ransomed slave, redeemed from bondage by the blood of Liberty, who, having struck off his shackles, holds them triumphantly aloft The slave is pictured gratefully bowing at her feet. Between these groups are three bas reliefs The first representing the firing on Fort Sumter The other two present the Senate and House amending the Constitution. The second story, first group, represents the members of the Cabinet in council as though in consultation Bates is here pictured despondingly, while Seward points towards Europe, as though explaining the importance of the act. The second group, the principal leaders of the emancipation cause The third the fall of Richmond and surrender of Lee. The crowning figure is the President in the act of signing the proclamation At his feet are Liberty and Justice, while behind sits Time, watching the hour glass, unmoved, as it were, from Heaven At the base of the steps leading from the centre structure are represented the leading commanders of the army and navy.

The Marysville (Cal.) Appeal makes the statement that "Senators Williams, Sherman, Trumbull and Fessenden opposed the passag of the Tenure of Office Act, and may be put down as doubtful as to their votes on impeachment" Neither of the Senators named opposed the passage of the bill The following are the ayes and noes on the question of passing the bill over the veto

Yeas—Anthony, Cattell, Chandler, Conness, Cragin, Edmunds, Fessenden, Fogg, Foster, Fowler, Frelinghuysen, Grimes, Harris, Henderson, Howard, Kirkwood, Lane, Morgan, Morrill, Nye, Poland, Pomeroy, Ramsey, Ross, Sherman, Sprague, Stewart, Sumner, Trumbull, Van Winkle, Wade, Willey, Williams, Wilson and Yates —35

Nays—Buckalew, Cowan, Davis, Dixon, Doolittle, Hendricks, Johnson, Nesmith, Norton, Patterson and Saulsbury—11

The Petersburg (Va.) Index remarks "Brick Pomeroy advertised for a Confederate flag to hang in his sanctum by the side of the Union banner We doubt the propriety of sending the flag to a man who didn't go to it We haven't much respect for it after the battle's over"

Sherman won't have it George H Thomas won't have it Suppose Mr Johnson trade for Thos B Florence, of the Pennsylvania militia? We can assure A J that Col. Tom will accept every brevet conferred upon him —N. Y. Tribune

Some amusing incidents are told of the sarcastic way in which the Democratic National Committee (Mr. Belmont, Chairman) refused to take any part in the "quarrel," as they term it, between the President and Congress But not one of the Committee seemed to be willing to rise as impeachment was a Democratic duty, and it was generally asserted that when they dined with His Excellency, last Saturday, Mr Belmont cut off all unpleasant discussion by intimating that they came there "to eat," and not to talk politics!

ANNUAL SCHOOL MEETING.—The annual school meeting of District No 1 of this county was held at the Central School House last evening.

W. S. Ladd, one of the Directors, took the Chair and directed the reading of the call, for the information of the meeting.

The election of Directors being declared in order, the following named gentlemen were placed in nomination: W. S. Ladd, Dr. Gilbaux, Jr. Wilson, A. J. Bentley, A. P. Jamison, Wm. Burdsall, C. W. Burrage, G. W. Vincent, C. M. Carter. A ballot being had it was found that L. Lovejoy, A. P. Dennis and Dr. Gilbaux had a plurality of the votes, and under the ruling of the Chairman that a plurality would elect, they were declared A. P. School Directors.

The meeting then proceeded to the election of a District Clerk and the following named gentlemen were placed in nomination: Ward 3 Stevens, John B. Guerin, W. N. Patton and J. C. McCoy. A ballot being had, Mr McCoy was found to have received a plurality of the votes and was declared elected Clerk.

A lengthy discussion then followed upon the legality of the choice of officers by a plurality vote—not having received a majority of all the votes cast, in which Messrs. J. K. Dolph, W. C. Chapman and Eugene Semple participated.

The matter of the application of Thomas Stephens and others for the erection of a school house on the Meadham road, near the southern border of the district, was then taken up, and the Directors were, on motion authorized to erect such house at a cost not to exceed $[illegible], on the land claim of Stephens or Terwilliger, as their discretion should provide, that one acre of land for the site should be donated and properly deeded to the district.

The claim of Goodenough & Clark to have paid them $[illegible] on their late contract for building the North Portland school house, the same having been withheld by the Board, was taken up and the meeting by a nearly unanimous vote, directed the payment.

A motion to levy a tax of one and a half mills for school purposes, and a call for the yeas and nays, was lost, and the meeting adjourned to meet again Monday evening, April 13th.

PASSOVER.—The Hebrew Passover—a festival instituted by Moses, commemorative of the escape of the Hebrew children from the destruction of the first born of each household in Egypt—began at sundown yesterday, and will continue for seven days, the first and last of which are observed by abstaining from all temporal occupation, and devotion to worship. During the seven days of the Passover, no leavened bread may be eaten, but only unleavened bread may be eaten, but only unleavened bread may be eaten; but all may partake themselves to thanksgivings and other forms of hospitality. Those of the Hebrews who, as Orthodox observe the first two days and the last two, as holy days, while those who are known as Reformed observe only the first and last days, strictly. The Passover is derived from the Hebrew word [illegible], to pass by. When the first born Israelite house of Egypt was slain, the Angel of the Lord warned the children of the coming doom, and through Moses were told that wherever the blood of the paschal lamb should be found sprinkled upon the door-post, that house should be spared. The Israelites took advantage of this information, and so escaped the vengeance which fell on all the rest of Egypt. In acknowledgement of this special favor of God, Moses instituted the feast of the Passover which the Hebrews observe with more or less strictness to this day, and wherever they may be.

ALL WHO'S LECTURE TO-NIGHT.—Nobody should forget that Mr. R. L. Applegate will lecture this evening, at Pythian Hall, for the benefit of the Temperance Library. As before announced, his subject will be "Mahomet and Al Koran." The lecture will be historical and literary. From what we can learn of the proposed scope of the lecture, the speaker will deal with certain strange questions which have occasionally attracted the attention of the most eminent historians and the most profound philosophers and thinkers, ever since the art of learning in modern ages, and which are of peculiar interest to those who believe in the philosophy of cause and effect—such questions, for example, as these: "Was the Wars of the Crusades? What caused the Dark Ages? Why did Napoleon attempt an Eastern Empire? Why did it fail? etc., etc. These and similar questions, treated in the peculiarly interesting style of Mr. Applegate usually calls to his aid, can scarcely fail to afford an evening's entertainment, both profitable and pleasant to people of all classes. We feel confident that the lecture has chosen to name the people and opinions of the State, his first audiences to such a subject, as the most likely to appreciate it, so no one who will go and thinking public who hears him, will be disappointed.

A NEW—The Commercial Herald (San Francisco) of the 30th, mentions the fact, as a remarkable one, that buyers were in that market buying for the Oregon mills. It will strike most people as a strange thing when it is considered how many fleeces are annually raised in our own State. And yet, if the figures contained in our manufactures and the consumption of wool, be correctly stated, the wonder would probably be, that the Oregon buyers [illegible] participated.

And yet, if the figures contained in our manufactures and the consumption of wool, be correctly stated, the wonder would probably be, that the Oregon buyers [illegible] participated.

PERSONAL.—The following were the arrivals per steamer Senator, from Oregon City 11 [illegible], 5 cases woolen goods 478 boxes apples, 2.9 [illegible], 19 gunnies bacon, 1 bale furs, 1 bale wool, 22 sacks feed, 113 cases lard 30 bf 1 bbl dried apples, 100 sacks oats, 8 pkgs unspecified, 5 tons pig iron, [illegible] 1,066 qr sacks flour. SMALL CONCERT.—Mr and Mrs J. S. Wood of Walla Walla, arrived in this city by the Cascades boat yesterday, and we learn that in the course of two or three evenings Mrs. Wood will give a vocal concert. She has considerable talent in the town along the upper Columbia, and the papers have spoken of her in terms of unbounded commendation. Mrs. Wood is a fine concert singer, and is a most estimable lady. We hope to see her welcomed by a good audience when she shall make her first appearance in Portland.

THE BELMONT YESTERDAY.—The audience at Ono Fino Hall, Sunday afternoon, to hear Hons. David Logan and J. L. Smith was a large one for an afternoon meeting, the hall being about full. Each of the gentlemen spoke the allotted time. Judging from the demonstrations of the audience, Mr. Logan had a very considerable following of them and the remarks which were very complimentary to Seward, lead us to the conclusion that he made a favorable impression for the most favorable impression.

TELEGRAPH.—The wire for the Dalles telegraph line has arrived by the Oneonta, the work of construction will be commenced this morning from the east bank of the river. The cable was laid across the Willamette last night. The poles are distributed along the line as far as the Sandy river and the line will be completed that far within the next week. It will cross the Sandy at the old ferry, and will then follow the Palmer road to the Rock.

THE PERFECT.—The Perfect ocean club which has been organized some three months ago, and which has since given a succession of excellent dinners each week, has decided to give a dinner only once in two weeks. The party will, in the ordinary course of things would have occurred this evening, will not take place till next Tuesday evening.

INTERESTING FOR LARCENY.—John Bird had to appear before Esq. Chapman yesterday morning on a charge of larceny in stealing money from A. J. Campbell. Jas. Ashby and Frank Bird were [illegible] with him but were discharged. Bird was fined $[illegible] and in default of payment was committed to jail. It appears that [illegible] days ago the amount in the pocket-book was [illegible] Bird's pocket.

BASE BALL.—The [illegible] Club [illegible] officers for the Sporting Club [illegible] the last evening at their [illegible] Bird, President; C. J. Perry, Vice President; H. A. Miller, Secretary; W. Hogberg, Treasurer; R. F. Baker, F. W. Wakefield, Colonel; Directors C. J. Perry, Secretary; [illegible], Umpire.

QUARTZ MACHINERY.—The John L. Stephens brought up the castings for a five stamp quartz mill destined for Warren's Diggings. The amalgamator is constructed with all the late improvements for saving both gold and silver. This is a silver region of Idaho, so the definition within the next six months, and will be immediately put up.

LADIES RELIEF SOCIETY.—Ladies of the Relief Society will meet in the basement of the Episcopalian Church today (Tuesday) at 2 o'clock P. M. for the annual election of officers, all interested in the cause are invited to attend.

DUST.—The streets have been very dusty for the last week, but there is a return to prospect of a better time coming as [illegible] is made to get the sprinkler [illegible].

HATS.—Mossenkoffer the King Call the hatters, received by the steamer John L. Stephens, another [illegible] assortment of beautiful styles of hats for the spring season. A catalogue of all the styles would fill [illegible] inch room and we do not advise everybody to [illegible] and see them. Seeing is believing, and believing is buying. Call and see for yourself such a variety of tasteful styles of hats as may now be found at Mossenkoffer's. Her after he will receive large additions by every steamer and it will be impossible for any man to go there without finding something to suit him, exactly.

THE HUNTERS SAVE AN INDIAN GIRL FROM A HORRIBLE DEATH

The Virginia Nevada) Enterprise of February 12th, relates the annexed

About two weeks since Aldrich Dimmick and one or two others left this city on a hunting expedition. They were well provided with arms and provisions and had a good time generally. Night before last they returned to this city, bringing several trophies of their prowess. During their excursion they killed one elk weighing 600 pounds and a number of deer, antelope and smaller game. Among their captures they reckon an Indian girl about seven years of age, whom they rescued from a war party of Pi-Utes. The party had with them another and older child, a woman and a girl about sixteen years of age, owned by Piutes whom they had ransomed and were conducting back to be tortured to death but our friends saw that though they might for the sake of peace, yield up one of their captives they would have to take their chances in a rough old fight before they could liberate all the captives. The Indians were determined to take their prisoners into the Piute camp and have a high old time—a big roast therefore, the boys compromised by saving the youngest of the prisoners. It appears that Winnemucca—not the old man, but the war chief—sent out the party our friends met with, instructing them to bring back the escaped prisoners, who belonged either to the Pitt River or some renegade tribe, dead or alive. The attention of Dimock and Alden—as first attracted to the party by seeing in their possession the scalp of a woman. Upon inquiring they learned the facts in regard to the situation, and rescued the child as above stated. The others were taken to the Piute village, and tortured until death. Had there been any person in authority to have interceded with Winnemucca, the lives of all the prisoners would doubtless have been spared. Our hunters report great loss of stock from the severity of the weather among the settlers of Honey Lake and Long Valleys—fifty head per day dying from scarcity of feed and the severity of the weather.

The Virginia Trespass gives the annexed version of the story of the Indian girls

On the sixth day they sighted a drove of antelope, and succeeded in running down, with their horses, and killing five of them. On their return from the chase they captured a Goose Lake papoose under the following circumstances. In a recent fight at Long Valley, between Young Winnemucca's tribe and the Goose Lake Indians, an old squaw with two papooses (girls were captured. They escaped, and five of Winnemuca's braves went on a hunt after them. They succeeded in capturing them, killed the old squaw, and were bringing their captives into camp for tortures. Dimmock and Alden met them and asked about it. The leader, pointing to the two girls said, "Heap kill, to-night." Thereupon, Dimmock seized the smallest one in his arms, and upon the bucks attempted to rescue the girl, Alden cocked his Henry rifle, and ordering them to leave. After some hesitation and considerable yelping, they took the oldest one and went off. Our hunters then left quickly for camp, taking the papoose along, which Dimmock brought home. We saw her this morning at his house. She is very wild but has fine features, and is evidently grateful to Dimmock for preserving her. She is seven years old by Indian reckoning, having seven spots burned on her left arm, as is the Indian custom. If such a custom prevailed here, how many ladies would wear short sleeves? Dimmock has had her bathed, dressed prettily, and her hair trimmed, and she will doubtless make a very neat and good servant for him in the coming year. The Indians took her sister to their camp that night and, after holding a grand pow-wow, tortured her to death.

The Summons to the President.

At four o'clock on the afternoon of March 7th, the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate called at the White house and delivered to the President the summons of the High Court of Impeachment for him to appear before it on Friday, the 13th inst. The President quietly remarked that it would receive attention, and the Sergeant-at-Arms returned.

The following is a copy of the important document:

The United States of America, ss. The Senate of the United States, sitting as a High Court of Impeachment, to Andrew Johnson, greeting:

Whereas the House of Representatives of the United States of America did, on the 4th day of March, exhibit to the Senate articles of impeachment against you, the said Andrew Johnson, in the words following:

[Here follow the articles.]

And whereas it is ordered that you, the said Andrew Johnson, be put to answer the accusations set forth in said articles, and that [illegible] examinations, trials and [illegible] be thereupon had as are [illegible] law and justice.

You, the said Andrew Johnson, are therefore commanded to be and appear before the Senate of the United States of America [illegible] sitting as a High Court of Impeachment, at their chamber in the city of Washington, on the 13th day of March, then and there to answer the said articles of impeachment and then and there abide by, obey, and perform such orders, directions, and judgments as the Senate of the United States, sitting as aforesaid, shall make in the premises according to the Constitution and laws of the United States.

Hereof you are not to fail.

Witness, Salmon P. Chase, and presiding officer of said Senate, sitting as such High Court of Impeachment, at the city of Washington this 6th day of March, in the year of our Lord, 1868, and of the independence of the United States the ninety-second.

Form of receipt to be endorsed on said writ of summons.

The United States of America ss. The Senate of the United States, sitting as a High Court of Impeachment, to George T. Brown, greeting:

You are hereby commanded to deliver to, and leave with, Andrew Johnson, if conveniently to be found, or if not, to leave at his usual place of abode, or at his usual place of business, in some conspicuous place, a true and attested copy of the written writ of summons, together with a like copy of this precept and [illegible] whereof you perform the service, let it be done at least four days before the [illegible] day mentioned in said writ of summons.

Fail not and make return to this writ of summons and receipt, with your proceedings thereon endorsed, on or before the appearance day mentioned in the said writ of summons.

Witness Salmon P. Chase, and presiding officer of the Senate, sitting as aforesaid, at the city of Washington, this sixth day of March in the year of our Lord 1868 and of the independence of the United States the ninety-second.

The Tribune, of Mobile honest rebel, plainly advocates a Cromwellian treatment of Congress, and putting "Grant and Stanton in chains," and refers exultingly to the "20,000 drilled troops of Maryland," and 2,000,000 of Northern Democrats who can raise an army large enough to over awe the regular army of the United States. "Marse Bob Lee," says the Tribune, "must take good care of his health. Before a twelve months is over he may be called upon to intercede for the rebel General Grant, now in arms against the Government of the United States, and in possession of Government property seized by force of arms."

The request by a well known lady of Philadelphia—"Visitors are requested not to touch the flowers"—is matched by a society story from Troy, New York. A lady of that city prints in a local paper an announcement to the effect that her parlors have been made unseemingly by oily heads. The young gentlemen who attend her receptions have rested their heads against the wall like Mr. Jellyby. "The oil is taken off by the paper and the entire respearing the room is frequently rendered necessary." Oiled and curled young men will take warning.

Amos Dean, a Professor in the Albany Law School since it was first opened a well known author of works on jurisprudence, long interested in our social literature, of which he was a thorough but liberal supporter, one of the largest and best private libraries in the country, died in Albany, New York, recently. He was preparing a work on the history of civilization.

The American Beaver and his Works

This is the title of a work lately published by Lewis H Morgan in Philadelphia. Speaking of their dams a reviewer says:

We can form an idea of the magnitude of some of them from the fact that a dam in one of the tributaries of the Carp river is four hundred and eighty feet long and backs up water which covers an area of twenty five acres. On one of the small streams flowing into the Assamoosha are three dams one of which measures three hundred and eighty five and an other five hundred and eighty one feet in length. A dam at Grass Lake one a transverse section, shows a height of a little more than six feet a base of eighty one feet, a water face of seven, and a lower face of thirteen feet. The materials are pieces of wood from one to three inches in diameter and from three to ten feet long, the interstices on the water side are filled with mud so as to form a solid structure, but the upper portion allows of percolation. In some cases, however a solid bank dam is made by filling in with mud on both sides but as the flow of water over the crest would soon wash out the water on the lower face, a sluice way is left in the middle of sufficient size to discharge all the surplus. Contrary to the usual assertion, a fallen tree very rarely enters into the composition of a dam. Out of fifty one, Mr. Morgan found only a single instance in which such was the case, and in that the tree had fallen from its own decay, and not before the teeth of the beaver. In that case, too, the sticks were all deposited below and not above the tree a mode of construction which looks as if the engineering were unskilful. In connection with this we might advert to another assertion, often much insisted upon, viz: that the beaver builds his dam with a convexity always against the current, thereby increasing its strength though frequently this is by no means always the case. In a series of thirteen dams on Carp river, all had their convexity downwards, while in others elsewhere the middle part was convex upwards, and the lateral portions were reversed, consequently had not the forms giving the greatest strength. Those who believe in the infallibility of instinct will do well to consider these facts. The most novel of Mr. Morgan's observations relate to the system of canals. We have not seen those noticed by previous writers, though the Indians and trappers, according to Mr. Morgan, have recognised their true nature. The former call them "old man's ditches"—literally, "made obanool to travel in." These excavations, the earth of which is often thrown on the sides, and all the roots encountered give the usual signs of having been gnawed off by the beaver. On one of the places is the plan of a canal four hundred and fifty feet long with two branches, one hundred and the other one hundred and fifteen feet. These are just what their names indicate, and are used as passage ways between the ponds and their wood lots, along which they float the sticks of yellow birch, willow, poplar, etc., which have been cut for food or for the construction of their dams and lodges."

SIR WALTER SCOTT AND HIS FAMILY.—His wife, with many agreeable and amiable qualities, never was to him, and never could be, a companion. Indeed, she never forgave Jeffrey his article on "Marmion" in the Edinburgh Review, and could not help showing what she felt, when immediately after the appearance of the Critique, the author of it dined at Scott's table. Staff, Scott was sincerely attached to her, and his diary shows that her death, though long expected, affected him deeply. His children, on the other hand—and he had four, two sons and two daughters—twined themselves round the core of his heart. In their infancy he seems to have taken comparatively little notice of them, but as soon as they were old enough to understand what he said, he delighted in having them with him, and devoted to them much time and tender care. Like their mute companions, the dogs, they had free admission to his study at all hours, when he would lay down his pen, take them on his knee, repeat to them a story or ballad, kiss them and send them away. From a very early age they were accustomed to dine with their father and mother. Their education he conducted in the most desultory manner. The girls, when old enough, were placed under a governess, selected far more because of good sense, judgment and moral worth, than on account of showy accomplishments; and the boys went to school as he himself had done; the eldest passing thence into a cavalry regiment, the youngest entering Oxford and taking a degree preparatory to admission into the foreign office. But till they were ripe for systematic teaching he was himself their instructor, the instruction being communicated much more frequently by oral tradition than through books. His tales on what are called week days were taken from the annals of their own and other countries; on Sunday, the children listened to him in the manner to stories, but they were stories taken from sacred history. And here, by the way, we may observe that with Scott whether at Abbotsford or at Edinburgh, Sunday was always a day of rest and recreation. In the country, however full of company the house might be, he invariably announced his intention of reading prayers at 11 o'clock, and he added frankly, and without affectation of shyness, "and I expect every lady and gentleman to be present." These usually followed the reading of the Liturgy, a sermon by some eminent divine—not unfrequently Jeremy Taylor—after which guests and members of the household were alike free to stroll wheresoever fancy led them. He, himself, usually attended by a select few, wandered amid his woods, and poured out to a delighted audience endless tales and legends connected with the locality.—Quarterly Review.

Socrates lived before his time, and perished in conflict with error. One of his prayers which is left us beautifully illustrates the character of the man. "Father Jupiter, give us all good, whether we ask it or not, and keep us from all evil, though we may not pray thee so to do. Bless all our good actions, and reward them with happiness and such."

UNION COUNTY CONVENTION.

A Union Convention for Multnomah county will be held at the Court House, in the city of Portland, on Saturday, April 25th, 1868, commencing at the hour of ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day for the purpose of nominating four Representatives to the State Legislature and County officers for said county.

525 MILES

OF THE

UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD!

Running West from Omaha

ACROSS THE CONTINENT,

ARE NOW COMPLETED.

THIS BRINGS THE LINE TO THE EASTERN BASE of the Rocky Mountains and it is expected that the track will be laid thirty miles further, to Evans Pass the highest point on the road by January. The maximum grade from the foot of the mountains to the summit is but eighty feet to the mile, while that of many eastern roads is over one hundred. Work in the rock cuttings on the western slope will continue through the winter, and there is now no reason to doubt that the entire grand line to the Pacific will be open for business in 1870.

The means provided for the construction of the Great National Work are ample. The United States grants its Six Per Cent Bonds at the rate of from $16,000 to $48,000 per mile for which it takes a second lien as security and receives payment to a large if not to the full extent of its claim in services. These bonds are issued as each twenty mile section is finished, and after it has been examined by the United States Commissioners and pronounced to be in all respects a first class road, thoroughly supplied with depots repair shops, stations and all the necessary rolling stock and other equipments.

The United States also makes a donation of 12 800 acres of land to the mile which will be a source of large revenue to the Company. Much of this land in the Platte Valley is among the most fertile in the world and other large portions are covered with heavy pine forests and abound in coal of the best quality.

The Company is also authorized to issue its own First Mortgage Bonds to an amount equal to the issue of the Government and no more. Hon. S. D. Morgan and Hon. Oakes Ames are Trustees for the Bondholders and deliver the bonds to the Company only as the work progresses, so that they always represent an actual and productive value.

The authorized capital of the Company is One Hundred Million Dollars of which over five millions have been paid in upon the work already done.

EARNINGS OF THE COMPANY.

At present, the profits of the Company are derived only from its local traffic but this is already much more than sufficient to pay the interest on all the Bonds the Company can issue. If not another mile were built it is not doubted that when the road is completed the through traffic of the only line connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States will be large beyond precedent and as there will be no competition, it can always be done at profitable rates.

It will be noticed that the Union Pacific Railroad is, in fact, a Government Work, built under the supervision of Government officers and to a large extent with Government money, and that its bonds are issued under Government direction. It is believed that no similar security is so carefully guarded and certainly no other is based upon a larger or more valuable property. As the Company's are offered for the present AT PAR IN U S CURRENCY, they are the cheapest security in the market, being more than 15 per cent lower than U S Stocks. They pay

SIX PER CENT. IN GOLD, or over NINE PER CENT. upon the investment. Subscriptions will be received in Portland by and in New York at the Company's Office No 20 Nassau street, and by and by the Company's advertised Agents throughout the United States. Remittances should be made in drafts or other funds par in New York, and the bonds will be sent free of charge by return express.

A NEW PAMPHLET AND MAP showing the Progress of the Work, Resources for Construction, and Value of Bonds, may be obtained at the Company's Offices or of its advertised Agents, or will be sent free on application.

TURBINE WATER WHEEL!

OF WHICH THE ABOVE IS AN ILLUSTRATION, has FOUR SETS OF BUCKETS, AND USES THREE-FOURTHS OF THE WATER TWICE.

The old high priced unequalled and unrivalled wheel has been taken out by a full working trial made by Mr H Kelly, at his saw mill and the following letter will explain as to the capacity of the two wheels in the following testimonial over his own signature.

MR H W SHIPLEY SIR In reply to your inquiry as to how I like your 36 in Turbine Wheel I have to say that I have used one over all I could use. I refit wheels—30 1 inch 15 inch diameter. When I substituted your 15 inch wheel for the 13-inch Leffell wheel I should unfasten it as what the machinery like it is using 52 ft of water per minute more than the 13 in Leffell. At your request I put apparently took your wheel out that it might be finished and then I put on a 15 inch Leffell but it gave no better power than yours while it used 54 cubic feet more water per minute. After some months I replaced your wheel and I am still using it with the most satisfactory results. I have subjected it to some severe tests. For instance while running the circular saw in a log which squared 16 inches, I added the planer with a 9 inch knife, cutting from one-eighth to one-fourth of an inch depth, without in the least slacking the speed. After thorough tests of both wheels I am satisfied that your wheel with gates one-eighth of an inch open gives as much power as the Leffell with gates one-third open. At half gate your wheel gives double the power of the Leffell at half gate. At full gate, the power of yours exceeds that of the Leffel, by from ten to twelve per cent. At quarter gate, the Leffel holds no comparison with yours at quarter gate.

N B Mr Shipley was not present at either of the trials of his wheel, he being sick at the first and absent from the State at the second trial.
